Sir:

In accordance with the duty of disclosure under C.F.R. §1.56, §1.97-1.98, Applicant hereby calls the following information to the Examiner's attention:

(1) ITU-T recommendation G.994.1 ("Handshake Procedures For Digital Subscriber Line (DSL) Transceivers"), published by the International Telecommunication Union in February, 2001;

A copy of a European Search Report mailed in related European Patent Application No. 03007777.0-2415 on October 11, 2003 is enclosed, in which the following documents are cited:

(2) ITU-T Recommendation V.8 bis ("Procedures for the Identification and Selection of Common Modes of Operation Between Data Circuit-Terminating Equipments (DCEs) and Between Data Terminal Equipments (DTEs) Over the General Switched Telephone Network and On Leased Point-to-Point Telephone-Type Circuits”), published by the International Telecommunication Union in August, 1996, was cited by the European Examiner as a category “X” document (particularly relevant if taken alone), and a category “D” document (cited in the application), with respect to the European application;

(3) International Publication Number WO 98/10545, entitled “Improvements In, or relating to, Multi-Carrier Transmission Systems”, published on March 12, 1998, was cited by the European Examiner as a category “A” document (disclosing the state of the art) with respect to the European application;

(4) An article by F. MESCAM, entitled “Introduction A La Procedure De Transmission HDLC”, published at pages 69-73 of L’Onde Electrique, vol. 53, no. 2 (February, 1973), was cited by the European Examiner as a category “A” document (disclosing the state of the art) with respect to the European application; and

(5) An article by H. OHBA et al., entitled “End-to-End Protocol Based On CCITT X.25 and Its Implementation”, published at pages 281-287 of Evolutions In Computer Communications, Kyoto September 26-29, 1978, International Conference On Computer Communication, Tokyo, Japan, vol. CONF. 4, September 1978.

A copy of a European Search Report mailed in related European Patent Application No. 03007773.9-2415 on October 11, 2003 is enclosed, in which the following documents are cited:

(6) ITU-T Recommendation V.8 bis (“Procedures for the Identification and Selection of Common Modes of Operation Between Data Circuit-Terminating Equipments (DCEs) and Between Data Terminal Equipments (DTEs) Over the General Switched Telephone Network and On Leased Point-to-Point Telephone-Type Circuits”), published by the International Telecommunication Union on August, 1996, was cited by the European Examiner as a category “X” document (particularly relevant if taken alone), and a category “D” document (cited in the application), with respect to the European application;

(7) U.S. Patent 5,493,609 to DAVIS et al., which issued on February 20, 1996 was cited by the European examiner as a category “A” document; and

(8) An article by K. KRECHMER at pages 63, 64 and 66 of Data Communications, McGraw Hill, NY, vol. 23, no. 2 (January 21, 1994), entitled “V.34 Modems: Off to a Fast Start?”, was cited by the European Examiner as a category “A” document with respect to the European application.

A copy of a European Search Report mailed in related European Patent Application No. 03007771.3-2415 on October 29, 2003 is enclosed, in which the following documents are cited:

(9) European Patent Application No. EP 0 974 202 and International Publication No. WO 99/35756, published on July 15, 1999 was cited by the European Examiner as being a category “E” document (earlier patent document, but published on or after the filing date) with respect to the European application;

(10) European Patent Application no. EP 0 820 168, published on January 21, 1998, was cited by the European Examiner as being a category “X” document with respect to the European application. Applicant notes that U.S. Patent 6,002,722 to WU, which issued on December 14, 1999 is a family member patent;

(11) U.S. Patent 5,479,447 to CHOW et al., which issued on December 26, 1995, was cited by the European Examiner as being a category “X” document with respect to the European application; and

(12) U.S. Patent 4,679,227 to HUGHES-HARTOGS, which issued on July 7, 1987, was cited by the European Examiner as being a category “A” document with respect to the European application.

A copy of a European Search Report mailed in related European Patent Application No. 03007772.1-2415 on October 11, 2003 is enclosed, in which the following documents are cited:

(13) ITU-T Recommendation V.8 bis (“Procedures for the Identification and Selection of Common Modes of Operation Between Data Circuit-Terminating Equipments (DCEs) and Between Data Terminal Equipments (DTEs) Over the General Switched Telephone Network and On Leased Point-to-Point Telephone-Type Circuits”), published by the International Telecommunication Union on August, 1996, was cited by the European Examiner as a category “X” document (particularly relevant if taken alone), and a category “D” document (cited in the application), with respect to the European application;

(14) U.S. Patent 5,493,609 to DAVIS et al., which issued on February 20, 1996 was cited by the European Examiner as a category “A” document; and

(15) An article by K. KRECHMER at pages 63, 64 and 66 of Data Communications, McGraw Hill, NY, vol. 23, no. 2 (January 21, 1994), entitled “V.34 Modems: Off to a Fast Start?”, was cited by the European Examiner as a category “A” document with respect to the European application.

A copy of a European Search Report mailed in related European Patent Application No. 99914300.1 on October 28, 2003 is enclosed, in which the following documents are cited:

(16) European Patent Application No. EP 0 974 202, published on January 26, 2000 and International Publication No. WO 99/35756, published on July 15, 1999, were cited by the European Examiner as a category “E” document with respect to the European Application;
